As it was, "you can't squeeze money out of a stone, ye know."

The Cananea butcheries of workingmen in Mexico was only the "seamy ide" of a transaction, the front and pratty side of which is now being percially unveiled in the suit brought by the owners of the Mexican San Toy chartes M. Schwab, who is alleged to have bought about 2,000,000 shares in the San Toy property for the "pre-sended consideration of $75,060," a action which the plaintiffs characterize as "unconscionable, collusive and void." There is not blood enough in the veins of Labor to float such manipulations.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, dissolves the great issues of the day into three main ies the problem of banking and currency; the problem of transportation; and the problem of corporations. It is commonly believed that the sage who divided humanity into three categories males, females and children-and that wiseacre who divided the earth into the Western, the Eastern, the Southern and the Northern hemisphere, were dead. Not so. They are merger into one, and are alive and drawing the salary of President of Columbia Univer-

According to the "Evening Post" the real estate of New York city is owned by workingmen. What other conclusion can be drawn from the free trade Evening Post's" double principle that 'the workingmen pay the taxes," and that "the taxes eat up the real estate"? -And yet these workingmen, los led with real estate, put on a poor mouth, and swell the bread lines. Oh, miserliness, thy name is workingman!

Desolate is the heart of Mamsel Fre Trade. Like left-overs, usually, the old girl set her heart and hopes upor desperate chance—the chance of captivating and "uniting" the Democracy in admiration of her charms. And now, from the very midst of the notbed of Democracy, the South, unim pressionable Democrats have arisen in favor of protection, "as a principle and a practice." Long-staple cotton grow ers of Georgia, South Carolina and Florida have appeared before the Ways and Means Committee with importun até demands for a high tariff, a tall stately tariff that shall "protect the Southern planter against the low wages of Egypt and India." Ingrate

Tillman as a rampant protectionist is the next Black Crook transformation that the political cards have in store as their contribution to the truth of Socialist philosophy that class needs determine class views. South Carolina is in the long staple cotton belt. Her product is competed with by Egyptian and Indian growers-and down goes the hatred to the Republican party. It should not be surprising if the anti-Negro Tillman be seen some day lecturing on the beati-tudes of "mixed marriages." Individuals may mutiny against the dictations of class interests—a class, if it is a property class, is quickly class-conscious; it bows meekly to one and all the dictates of its interests.

Enough is leaking through to warrant the conclusion that Carnegie's free trade move was intended for a anuffer upon some of his competitors n steel, as much as for a lowering of wages. Jones and Laughlin are indignant at the threat to kick down the ladder of protection by which Carnegie ascended-to philanthrophy.

The "Arbeiter Stimme," a New York Yiddish Anarchist paper, contributes the latest evidence that the symbol of the Anarchist is a man with his foot in his mouth—as the below deadly parallel proves:

ANOTHER REWARDED.

Roosevelt Gives Pittsburg "Labor Editor" His Pie.

Washington, December 2.-President Roosevelt has aroused a storm of indignation among Representatives in Congress from Pittsburg and vicinity by serving notice on them that he had decided to appoint John D. Pringle editor of the "Labor World" at Pittsburg, as Appraiser of Customs for that vited Pringle to Indicate what he de sired, and the "labor" editor, who objected to dragging the Federation into polities told the President he wanted to be appointed Appraiser for the Port of Pittsburg.

The President, without consulting Senators Knox or Penrose or either of the Representatives in the House from western Pennsylvania, told Pringle he would be appointed.

The Republican leaders have told the President that Editor Pringle had no special qualification for the office. There is no local demand for his appointment; in fact, it is opposed by the business interests, but Rooseveli flatly told Representatives Dalsell and Barchfield, each of whom presented a candidate for the position, that he will appoint the editor of the "Labor World" unless Pennsylvania Senators serve notice upon him that they will oppose confirmation.

Since election Roosevelt has not announced the appointment of the following false leaders of labor to important Federal offices, all of whom were promised the places during the cam-

MAY DEPORT RUDOWITZ

Commissioner Foote Indicates that Such May Be Result of His Decision.

Chicago, Ill., December 6. - Christian Rudowitz, a Russian refugee must go back to Russia unless he is saved by the intervention of the Department of State or of the President. This decision was clearly idicated by United States Commissioner Foote yesterday after a hearing lasting more than a month.

Rudowitz, who sought to fight his tradition, is accused by the Russian officials of participating in the murder of Mrs. Withelmina Kinz and her parents at Tubuk, although this is simply a pretext of Russia to take the life of one who has been an active revolutionary opponent of the Czar-

Much anxiety was felt when Commissioner Foote announced that the hearing was closed. "If a long decision is wanted I can give it," said Commissioner Foote. "If I should decide that this is not a political offence and that the evidence with this decision should go to the Department of State would you want me to go into detail?"

The attorneys for the defence said detailed decision would be desirable. "Well," continued Foote, "I have pretty clearly indicated what this decision is to be, but I see no reason for not waiting until Monday to give a formal state-

JERSEY UTOPIANS

THEY'RE TRYING TO FIND OUT WHERE THEY ARE AT.

Lured to a "Joyous Land" by the Pied Piper of Capitalism They Wake Up to Find It a Sandy Desert - The Revolutionary Element, too, Is Doing Some Quiet Thinking.

Jersey City, December 4. - Binca Election day some of the Socialist party utopians have been indulging in sober reflection upon the million votes they didn't get. Others of them are still under the influence of the Pied Piper of Capitalism-the capitalist press, and with Benjaminum Hanford, and a stub of pencil, figure out, vote or no vote, 2,000,000 supporters for the

The revolutionary element in the S. P., on the other hand, ever antici-Piper did not stampede them, They are doing considerable thinking these days. They clearly saw that it was for no good that the capitalist press, which usually pursues toward the Socialist movement, either a consniracy of silence or a conspiracy of villification; this time pursued the conspiracy of booming the "Red Special" and "1,500,000 votes for Debs."

The S. P. utopians were callow enough to imagine that at last the movement had grown so strong as to force recognition! Under the influence of the strains of the Pied Piper they took leave of the common horse sens which enables them to get about the streets in safety, and readily became Republican catspaws.

The S. P. revolutionists, and the utopians who have taken a tumble, are placing the blame for the utopianism upon their own press, and rightly, for as one of them remarked, "Our proga fell into the trap and echoed the Republican press, which boomed us to ensure a Republican triumph."

The utopian is an amoosin cuss anyway. I listened to a group of them reeling off, glib as parrots, "economic determinism," "material interest," etc., and denouncing the "ignorance" of the workingman! The utopian always bas his Socialism up his sleeve, or concealed elsewhere about his person. Hear one of them in defence of the "Call," which one of his comrades had declared valueless for Socialist propaganda: "The 'Call' is foxily conducted. You give a man that paper and it looks like any other newspaper, pictures and all. Even the editorial goes at him mildly, not slamming his prejudices like some others of our papers."

"And where is its Socialism?" asked the one who had questioned the paper's value as a propaganda medium.

'If everybody in the party who knocked it, would boom it, the paper elotted hand of the Czar reaching across | would soon be a success," was the Conflicting press interests are lining up the S. P. members to the tune of "Volkszeitung" versus "Cail." The "Call" advocates complain that the Germans in the party regard everything, from the drinking of beer to the most vital party measure, from the standpoint of: What effect will it have on the "Volkszeitung"? and that their action are those of "Volkszeitung" nartisans instead of party members.

It was the German element that engineered the killing of the unity movement in this state by a series of unique caucuses. These caucuses were held in the guise of socials and parties, at certain houses. Those favoring unity were not invited; and when it came to a vote, members long forgotten showed up at meetings-the same experience as we had in 1899

Another utopian that I ran across is a Bayonne "radical," who ran for office on the Bryan ticket. He thinks that the last election proves that the American people are willing slaves, He got out some campaign matter of his own, stating that he was in favor of clean streets, even sidewalks, plenty of parks, and more of that sort. I pointed out how much more important the untutored workers conceived, even the promise, of a slave's job, to all such things; but I don't think he grasped it. This talk of the ignorance of the workers makes me tired. They haven't as yet been reached by Socialism and

SAN FRANCISCO'S PROTEST

Against Extradition of Jan Janoff Pouren.

San Francisco, Cal., November 29. -Outside the skies were blue and the sun glowed warm. To the toilers, weary with the week's long labor, the lure of the open was strong. Yet in spite of this, Dreamland Rink, San Francisco's largest auditorium, was well filled with a pated over 600,000 votes. The Pied thoughtful throng who had come to voice their protest against the extradition of Jan Pouren and other political refugees.

The chairman promptly at two o'clock called the gathering to order, and in a short address explained the purpose of the meeting and introduced A. Walsh of the Frisco Labor Council. The speaker pointed out the danger of allowing a precedent of this kind to be established. Further, he showed that a fundamental right was being infringed upon. He was applauded when he closed.

The next speaker introduced was Geo. Speed, who proved to be the orator of the day. His lean dramatic figure was clearly outlined against the painted background. His tense vibrant voice reverberated and rang among the very rafters of the huge barnlike structure. Out of his passion-twisted mouth flowed s steady stream of burning molten words, and before the audience rose the colossal picture of Russian rebellion and repression. They saw the streets run red with the blood of peaceful petitioners. They saw the awakening of the stolid, misery-burdened peasant workman, how the proletaire of Moscow piled up the streets and fought and died for liberty. They saw the gigantic but premature mutinies in the navy and army, and the monstrous, wholesale executions that followed. They saw the Government-inaugurated pogroms and their myriads of victims. They saw the revolt of the Baltic provinces and the proclamation of the Republic.

Then the scene changed and they be held the struggle for maintenance and the final defeat of the revolutionists. They saw the brutal reprisals of the inhuman Cossacks. They felt the damp air of the dungeons. They heard the screams of tortured martyrs, smelt the odor of burning flesh. They saw the unswerving perseverance of the revolutionists in the face of death, slow torture and martyrdom. They saw the bloodthe sea to receive the political refugees answer the "Call's" defender gave. at the hands of the United States Gov ernment.

The speaker ceased abruptly and sat down. For a second the crowd sat silent and spellbound. Then rising to their feet they broke into mingled cheers and protests which lasted for minutes. .

The next speaker, S. Schulberg closed with an appeal for funds. The crowd responded by throwing over $125 into the collection baskets.

Austin Lewis followed, and dealt main ly with the legal aspect of the case, disrussing the American ambassador's das tardly action at St. Petersburg and the peculiarities of the extradition treaty. He was attentively listened to.

The last to speak was Col. Petrovsky whom the Government attempted to extradite about a year ago. He spoke in Russian, and while the majority were not able to understand, vet they retain ed their seats to the very end and applauded him vigorously when he sat

The protest meeting was an unqualified success and is but the first of the series which the Pouren Defense League have arranged.

French, who was recently appointed an officer of the invenile court. Harry Barker, business agent of the Waiters' union and vice-president of the assembly, sceeded French.

"James C. Bulger, city plumbing inspector and delegate from the Plumbers' union, also resigned.

Ralph, G. Moser, delegate from th engineers' union, engineer at the city hall and delegate to the chamber of commerce, was asked to resign, as was Joeeph Palmer, also of the engineers.

"Edwin V: Brake, former state labor commissioner, was again indorsed for the position, and Henry Klein of the striking boilermakers was indorsed for state boiler inspector. This action went through despite the fact that the constition of the assembly says that no political aspirants can get the official indorsement of the local labor body. The delegates want Brake put in office again, as he was said to be friendly to labor during his first term.

"The forcing of the resignations was done because of factional differences that are on in the local labor world over politics, and the ousting of Moser and Palmer is part of the plans of the Hally faction to 'get even' with the city hall politicians who have been after Hally's scalp for some time. You have been consuming, since you were born, taking from others the fruit of their labor and ingenuity. Has your given them in exchange for it?" fruit, given to them, been equal to what you received? Have you produced as much as you have consumed?

Most of us can say, Yes. Even that pauper, if he has worked, lias paid and more than paid his board, for a day's labor, of the feeblest, is worth more than thirty cents. Our common workmen everywhere have paid their board and more. Their labor is worth more than the sum they are paid for it, else no one would employ them. They bene politics is the best description of the fit the world directly and indispensably but the livings of wives and children. Such a man would be met with the howl. This is as though in a small, limited, economic group, the services of ten out of a hundred were so valuable as to warrant giving them more than "their keep"; out of their surplus they were free to maintain two out of the hundred to teach them Sanscrit, let us sayservice which did not appeal to the ma jority. Others may say that the service of the artist of any sort is of special and peculiar value, and worth more than the artist ever gets. On either ground we will consider that the artist has paid his board; that some artists indeed are social benefactors past accounting.

Are there any persons left against whom society has still a charge? Are there individuals or classes who consume without producing anything?

There are many lines of what is called business" in which it would be hard ideed to prove any social value in the activities of the participants. I once met a millionaire, a "self-made man," very proud of having now a great for for it?-The Independent.

"Yes," said I. "I understand perfectly that you have expended brains and energy-but is it an exchange? You have their money-have they your brains and energy!"

What the gentleman had done with his brains and energy was mainly in the line of bonding lumber-helping the formation of great lumber companies. which devastated the forests of the State lowered the water supply, promoted floods in spring and drought in summer, wasted the soil, wasted the trees, injured the whole community, This was not service. He had the money, his supply of the world's materials and labor, his "board"-but he had not paid for it. What he gave for his money was not of social value; quite

We are apt to be confused by the vierous display of "brains and energy" on the part of many prominent business men to-day. We respect their ability, recognize their generalship, call them Captains of Industry, and never stop to analyze the nature of their services. Is the work they do useful to the world? Do they give us value equivalent to the vast sums we give them? Their wages are enormous-what is their work?

It required a considerable outlay of mental power no doubt for Jay Gould to wreck railroads-but is wrecking railroads a social service? A man may plot like a Medicean prince, and sweat like a horse, in wrecking a railroad trainbut then the damage is visible, the pain immediate and distinctly traceable to the efforts of the wrecker; and any claim he might offer of profound ingenuity and herculean strength is not held to offset his criminality. Outlay of force is not a proof of ser-rice. When a man has a million or ten million or a hundred million dollars of "earnings," the point to establish is not the skill and ability he used in acquiring them, but the social value of his accomplishment. The mental acumen and physical agility of a successful housebreaker may be far and away beyond those of my gardener. The gardener's "board" is fifteen a week perhaps-the burglar's fifty. By H. S. K.

Crossing West street, N. Y., the other day with my little niece as one of the antiquated Belt Line horse-cars passed she exclaimed: "Oh look at the trolley pushing the horses!" A horse car was a novelty to her. Her perception had taught her that an electric car "goes of itself' and that anything in front must be in the way. It took some explaining to make the matter clear to

It is most natural for the young to conclude that things as they see them have always been so; and when they begin to learn differently it is with wonder and astonishment that they hear of past times, and the changes that have taken place as civilization confessed that he hadn't yet got over the shock of the election. sure we would have a million votes," he said, pathetically. He acknowledged that the boosting of Debs by the capitalist press had fooled him into that belief.

Well he was not the only one of the S. P. who was fooled in that way:

And, oft repeated, they believed 'em."

It is to be hoped, however, that some of the S. P. men learned a lesson. In these days of commercialism; when shoddy is labeled "all wool," look out for the capitalist press tacking th word "Socialist" to political shoddy.

The election is past and the S. L. P. is in the field as unperturbed as ever. well: "The fact is, even in the darkest time, there still was something which despotism feared or discovered it must fear."

It is simply astounding how little the average pure and simple trades unionist knows of the Labor Movement-generally he hasn't the slightest conception of what it means. If you want to see an honest member of the rank and file amazed and inspired just enlighten him upon the class-conscious theory of the Movement

The S. L. P. is the only organization that persistently and consistently has taught the workers the real issue. All others have acted in such manner as to prevent class-conscious thought from reaching the workers-to the benefit of Capitalism and untold injury of the working class.

The opponents of the S. L. P. tell us that its methods of agitation are "repulsive." When looked into it will be found that it is FACTS that are "re pulsive." The language of the S. L. P. is carefully based upon facts, and facts are facts, whether they are uttered, or remain mute. It is the language of accurate and honest men that is "re-

The S. L. P. is not so foolish as to attempt the nonsense of trying to further a revolutionary movement by blandishment. Its methods may be, and no doubt are "repulsive" to kidgloved inanes, and the labor fakir understudies of capitalism; but on the other hand its methods are clarifying and strengthening to the workers.

Of course there are people who need not get down to the vulgar drudgery of giving facts. Their boundless conceit leads them to think that all that abould be expected when they shoot off their mouths is a general nodding of heads in approval.

But go deeper, and you will find that the gentry to whom the S. L. P. is "repulsive," are such as have crookedness to cover, dishonesty to conceal SQUEEZING THE WORKINGMAN

By combining several corporations into one, by operating several establishments of the same kind in different parts of adjusting the pay exactly to the motive be country, by placing them all on a and capacity. This is done by premiums uniform system of accounting which and bonuses on output, instead of the shows at a glance every month the miretest detail of every item of cost, the modern trust is going farther to alienate classes than did the single corporation when it displaced the individual employer. The primitive competition of employer against employer is a children's game compared with the modern competition of manager against manager checked up every month by the cold statistics of cost. Under this system managers go down like tenpins, or up like Schwab. They "hire and fire" their employees, promote and derate their subordinates, with the precision of rapidfire guns. Under their exact system of costs they measure a man as they do coal, iron, and kilowatts, and labor becomes literally, what it has been by analogy, a commodity. If one be a scientist or an engineer one can but admire the marevious results. The astounding reductions of cost, the unheard of efficiency of labor, the precise methods of scientific experiment and tests, reveal a new field of conquest of the human mind, But if one talks with the workmen at their homes one hears the grumblings of class struggle.

The system is perfected by the division of labor. Formerly a workman's efficiency consisted of two things, skill and speed. Division of labor has split up his skill into its constituent operations, and the progress of cost-keeping is carrying the analysis farther than ever before. Instead of the skill of one man we have the grading of operations among a gang of men. Skill had to be measured by quality, by intelligence, by ingenuity, rereatility, and interest in his work. These human qualities are elusive and not yet measured even by modern paychology. But speed can be measured by quantity and a clock Workmen can Commons, University of Wisconsin, in now be compared with each other and paper on "Is Claza Conflict Growing in netered up like dynamos. The rise and | America and Is It Inevitable!"

That corporations break down the per- | fall of their energy each hour or day conal ties that formerly held together can be charted and filed away in a card

Immediately there follows a new science and art of industrial psychology. The efficiency of a steam engine is kept always at its maximum by feeding the coal by an automatic stoker. So the output of labor is kept at the top by cruder and more wasteful methods of paying the same price for every piece, and these premiums are nicely figured to the point where the workman will put out the maximum exertion for the minimum bonus. The psychology of the workmen is analyzed and experimented upon as accurately as the chemistry of different kinds of coal. A time-keeping department is created for this purpose with experts, card records, and a testing laboratory, and a new engineering profession springs up with industrial psyhology as its underlying science. Wonderful and interesting are these advances in harnessing the forces of human nature to the production of wealth. The pioneers in this field, calling themselves production engineers," may well be compared with the great inventors of the turbine and the dynamo in what they are doing to reduce cost and multiply efficiency. But in doing so they are doing exactly the thing that forces labor to become class-conscious. While a man retains individuality he is more or less proof against class feeling. He is self-conscious. His individuality protects him somewhat against the substitution of someone else to do his job. But when his individuality is scientifically measured off in aliquot parts and each part is threatened with substitution by identical parts of other men, then his sense of superiority is gone. He and his fellowworkmen compete with each other, not as whole men, but as units of output, The less-rifted man becomes a menace to the more-gifted as much as the one to the other. Both are then ripe to recognize their solidarity, and to agree not to compete. And this is the essential thing in class conflict.-Pref John R.

The theory of Socialism is not hard for the average man to grasp. It is when you come to the How-the gettine of Socialism, that work is cut out for you. The Woman Question is not a question by itself: it is a part of the great social problem. Proceeding along this line, Bebel's work is an exhaustive analysis of the ecosomic position of woman in '10 past and present. Despite the boarts of Capitalis' Christianity the facts show that under Capitalism woman, especially of the working class, is degraded and dwarfed physically and mentally, while the word home is but a meckery. Recently the minister of labor introduced an industrial conciliation and arbitration act amendment bill in the house of representatives. At first sight this bill appears designed rather to weaken than to strengthen the law. as it repeats the section in an earlier act enabling strikers to be imprisoned if they remained obdurate under milder that this penalty of imprisonment for erms is too severe to be effective. resentment it causes that little is lost by abandoning it. In other respects the bill is certainly intended to make the lot of illegal strikers-and practically all striking is illegal in New Zealand-harder than it was before It is designed in particular to remedy a curious flaw discovered by the law officers in the arbitration acts as they stand at present.

Clearly during a dispute the possibility of the men's getting financial support from other men or unions is a a recent mining strike, as is describe in the article from our New Zealand correspondent, money poured in to support the men from unions in every part of the dominion. Since the strike itself was in defiance of an award of the arbitration court it might reasonably have been thought that those who sent this money were, as persons "alding and abetting" an illegal strike themselves doing an illegal act. The attorney general of New Zealand appears, however, to have advised that strike, as contemplated by the act, was an instantaneous deed. Those who merely supported men after they had

The first object of the present is to rule out this reading of the law. A new definition is given of the term "strike." A penalty is imposed not only for the first act of stopping work. but also for every week that the strike continues thereafter. A specially high penalty is to be inflicted for aiding or abetting a strike when this is done by a union, employer or any person other than a worker. be at their posts at a certain hour.

That a Socialist Commonwealth end, not only in the mills, but in all would afford its members comfort and security has been admitted even by the foes of Socialism; "but," say they dear a price; they are paid for with | worker' employed in any industry; the a total loss of freedom; the bird in a cage may also have sufficient daily food; it also is secure against hunger, the inclemencies of the weather, and enemies: but it has lost its freedom. and for that reason it is a pitiful being. that peeps through glided bars into a world of dangers and want, and fain would struggle for its own existench." They maintain that Socialism destroys conomic freedom and the freedom of labor; that it introduces a despotism in comparison with which the most unrestricted political absolutism would be freedom, because this would control only one side of man, whereas Socialism would control all the phases of human activity.

So great is the fear of this slavery that even some Socialists are seized with it, and they become so-called philosophical" anarchists. These gentlemen have as great a horror for the communism that there is in Socialism as they have for the system of production for sale; and the odd measure they take to escape both is to demand both: they want to have communism and production for sale together. Theoretically, this is absurd; in practice, the thing amounts to nothing else than the exploded co-operative establishments which addlepated capitalist philanthronists have again and again advocated. gain and again started, and again and again failed in.

Freedom of Labor Goes with Small Pro

The charge is correct that Socialist production is irreconcilable with the full freedom of labor, that is to say, with the freedom of the laborer to work when, where, and how he wills But so is this freedom of the worker rreconcilable with all planful, co-operative work, whatever the form which it may assume, whether the form be capitalist or Bocialist. Freedom of laoor is possible only in small production, and even there only up to a cer tain point. Even where the small producer is freed from all social restrictions, he still remains dependent upon natural and social influences; the farmer depends upon the weather, the small industrialist depends upon the mankets. "Freedom of Labor" is the ideal the most revolutionary ideal, which the class of the small producer, unable to ook beyond the horizon of small profuction, is capable of. This ideal had ts good reasons a hundred years ago; to-day it has no economic bottom to stand on, and can only haunt the heads of such people as are unable to perceive the industrial revolution that has since then taken place. The downfall of the Freedom of Labor" is necessarily connected with the downfall of small production. It is not the Socialists who destroy this "Freedom of Labor," but the resistless progress of large production. Oddly enough, the very ones on whose lips is found most frequently the declaration that "labor must be free" are the capitalists, i. e., those who have contributed most to the overthrew of that freedom,

"Freedom of labor" has come to an Kautsky.

From time to time the workers are victorious, but only for a time. The the immediate result but in the always growing unity of the workers, This is aided by the improved means of communication which are created by modern industry, and which brings the workers of different localities into contact with one another. This was just the contact required to centralize the numerous local struggles, all of the same character, into a national, into a class struggle. Now every class struggle is a political struggle. And the union, which it took centuries for the burghers of the Middle Ages, with their wretched highways, to eatablish, the modern proletariat achieves by means of railways in a few years.

This organization of the proletarians into a class, and, consequently, into a political party, is continually hampered by the competition among the workers themselves. But it always arises again, stronger, firmer, mightier. It compels legislative recognition of particular working class mterests by profiting by the divisions within the hourgeoisie tself. For instance, the Ten Hours' Bill in Eng-a perpetual state of warfare; at first with the aristocracy, later with those sections of the bourgeolsie itself whose interests have become antagonistic to the progress of industry; at all times with the bourgeoisie of foreign countries. In all these battles it finds itself compelled to appeal to the proletariat, to call for its aid, and thus to draw it into the political arena. It thus provides the proletariat with the elements of social education, i. e. with the weapons to be used against the bourgeoisie itself.

Furthermore, as we have seen, by the advance of industry whole sections of the ruling class are precipitated into the ranks of the proletariat, or their livelihood is at least threatened. They also supply the proletariat with numerous elements of progress.

. Finally, at the moment when the class struggle approaches the decisive hour, the process of dissolution within the ruling class, within the whole of society in fact, takes a character so viblent and glaring, that a small part of the ruling class cuts itself off and joins the revolutionary class, the class which holds the future in its hands. Just as formerly, a portion of the nobility went ever to the bourgeoisie so now a portion of the bourgeoisis goes over to the proletariat, and particularly that portion of the bourgeol of the old society further in many ideaologists who have reached a theo-

Of all the classes which stand at present in opposition to the bourgeoisie the proletariat alone is a truly revolutionary class. The other classes decay and go under before modern industry; the projetariat is its special and direct product.

The lower middle class, the small manufacturer, the small shopker the peasant proprietor, all struggle against the bourgeoisie to save from extinction their position as sections of the middle class. They are therefore not revolutionary, but conservative. And what is more, they are reactionary, because they try to turn back the wheel of history. Should they ever be revolutionary, they are so from fear of being forced down into the ranks of the proletariat, thus defending not their present but their future interests, and thus abandoning their own standpoint to adopt that of the proletariat.

The slum population, that passively putrifying scum of the lowest layers of past society, is sometimes set in movement by a proletarian revolution, but its whole conditions of life prepare it rather to sell itself to the revolutionary forces. - Communist | Labor Party. THE IN-CLASS STRUGGLE.

Though the class struggle is getting to be protty well admitted on all bands, except by pulpiteers, who have, for appearance's sake, to keep up i pretence, there is another struggle that indes general observation. For lack of a better name it may be designated as the "in-class struggle."

The workingmen at present engaged on the two sides of the clay workers confict at Perth amboy are illustrating this significant struggle, and by illustrathe tactics that the Socialist Movement demands.

The in-class struggle is the struggle within the proletarian class, Super ficial observers tire not of pointing out that "Labor is always quarreling"; sentimentalists take up the whine, unconscipusly utter a great truth -'If Tabor were but united!" nately the truth in this case, being but a lamentation, is barren.

The Movement has already given hirsh to the observation that The Isme is no longer one between Labor. and Capital. For all practical purposes that issue is settled. Only, the fruit-bearing settlement of it awaits the mettlement of another issue—the issue of the in-class struggle.

It is not Capital and Labor who are conflict at Perth Amboy. The conflet rages among the proletariat. One at holds one view; another set another. The former rally to the bannae that none shall live but those who are organized; the latter's banner iples seem breconcilable. n them will triturate the it will consume years, but out of the he will arise wisdom-that wisthat will enable the proletariat to

First-That the Union is a sacred only when it is true to its Second-That the Union is not true to its class so long as it is constructed upon principles that exclude and necesserily must exclude the majority of its class from the benefits it is intended to bestow:

Third-That no Craft Union can be true to its class. Craft Unionism being constructed upon a plan that ignores the fact, long learned by capitaliem, that no industry is independent from but all are interdependent upon one another, Craft Unionism excludes one organized craft even the other organized ones, hence includes only a triffing number of the prole-

Fourth-That only the integrally orto the proletariat, seeing that that being ONE Union embraces them all in the various subdivisions which the tool they use mark out.

These four cardinal principles are the fine flour that is being ground in the mill of the all-important in-class struggle. In the measure that the flour is shound, the proletariat will grow une to the practices of the police epy and intriguer; it will grow in to the senters, the wind-base of little snowledge who now, like gad-flies ours about it: it will grow immune to the lures of "short cuts." In the riponess of time, the flour being all ground the in-class struggle will cease, and the proletariat will find itself united on the political as on the industrial field-a solid organization.

Will then the hattle royal take place between Capitalism and Socialism Ab, no! The battle will be behind, no onger in front of the united proletariat; it will be over. There will be no battle left to fight.

The real battle, the only battle-that is being fought out now. It is the inclass battle.

GERMANY'S SOCIAL DEMOCRACY AT WORK.

About fourteen years ago, address ing a meeting in Berlin against the moves then or foot to inject reform banes into the Social Democracy. Behel asked: "What, for instance has the issue of vaccination to do with Socialism?" The question was a clincher. So, like wise, may to-dayin sight of the prominent rôle played by the Social Democracy in the Reichstag debates, just started, to secure ministerial responsibility—the question be asked: "What has the issue of ministerial responsibility to do with Socialism?"

"Ministerial responsibility" implies political State"; Socialism implies the Industrial State"-two mutually recelling systems. The issue of "minlaterial responsibility," accordingly, affects only the class system of rule. Can it be any concern of Socialism to tinker upon and perfect and beautify system that its aim is to overthrow? The answer is "Yee" and "No"- ecording to the country affected. "Yes"-in Germany.

No more than in Nature, does evolution make leaps in Society. Feudal Society cannot leap into Socialism. The chasm between the two has to be bridged by Capitalism. The bridge over the chasm is the socio-politica work of engineering that history demands from the bourgeois. That engineers' work is in an unfinished state in Germany. Its unfinished state has blocked Socialist progress in the Empire. The German Socialists, on the march to their goal, are halted by the abruptly breaking off arch of the bridge they needs must cross. special problem arises under such circumstances. For these many years the German Social Democracy has been laboring thereat-the finishing of the work left unfinished by the German bourgeois revolution. The task is impossible. No more than the bourgeois could have perfected the feudal can the proletariat perfect the capitalist system. A moment has, however, arrived when the bourgeois of Germany, driven by their class interests, have themselves buckled down to the work they left unfinished. The move of the Radical Liberals to secure ministerial responsibility" means just that; and, acting like enlightened men the German Social Democracy gives a helping, a strong helping hand.

The enlightened conduct of the German Social Democracy will be misunderstood only by the pure and simple Socialist politician of America For the identical reason that the German Social Democracy deserves applause for temporarily suspending its Socialist work and assisting the bourgeois Radicals, such a policy in Amerears the legend that he shall live who ica deserves condemnation only. Here, in Union or no Union. The two in America, the bourgeois has completed his revolution as he has done Here the bours felse that is in both. It will cost life, bridge spans broad and strong the chasm that separates Old Feudalism coming Socialism. Here, in America, to suspend Socialist work one instant and assist the Radical bourgeois is not to assist in a necessary work, it is to waste time in filigreeing the bourgeois bridge.

As an applauder of the German Social Democracy, the S. L. P. of America rejects, for America, the tactics that German conditions demand.

WHEDE MOS WELLS EPRED

A meek man, as reported, having meekly asked Mrs. Borrmann Wells, on December 4th, where she thought was the place of several women he knew who expected to hold that evening a meeting to prohibit child labor-"was their place at that meeting, or at the meeting to be held that same evening at Carnegie Hall in the interest of wom an suffrage?" the lady answered: "f would have them attend the suffrage meeting, and give them the right to vote. When we have the right to vote we'll go to Congress, not as we would have to go now, saying, 'Please, good sirs, prohibit child labor.' No, we would go saying, 'Here, you men, frame laws prohibiting child labor, or we'll bombard you at the next election with one hun deed thousand, two hundred thousandat any rate a sufficient number of votes to insure that you who are crushing the lives out of children are not elected."

Very beautiful-but not war. From whom are the votes to con

From the men and the women who are children? From the male and the feof whose eyes and the rosiness of whose cheeks is extracted from the eyes and cheeks of the proletarian working children! Surely not. If the votes are to come at all they must come from the male and the female proleta rist itself.

Child labor is heinous; but child labor is the consequence of a previous helnousness—the starvation wages of the proletariat. A powerful weapon with which starvation wages are enforced is the injunction. Bryan promised, if not to abolish, yet to dull the edge of the injunction sword, and he made the promise obedient to the revolt that has been going up among the proletariat against the Injunction Terrorism. Bryan was overwhelmingly defeated. Where did the labor vote go to? Almost solidly for Injunction Taft. Was it that the male proletarist changed their mind regarding the Injunction? Not at all. It was that they justly concluded a live dog is better than a dead lion. They realized they could do nothing unless alive, and could enjoy no reform unless alive to enjoy it. The Taft class threatened a general shut-down if Taft- was defeated. Taft's defeat spelt to these male proletarian voters "s-t-a-r-v-at-i-o-n"-and they voted against starvation. Will the vote go otherwise, whatever the issue, if women proletarians hold the vote? The same logic that stampeded the male proletarian vote from the anti-injunction Bryan to the proinjunction Taft, will again, and yet again stampede the proletarian vote away from and in the same direction; whether the women's votes are added to the men's or not.

Under capitalism universal suffrage, in and of itself, simply adds to the poll of the top-capitalist. Universal suffrage, in and of itself, multiplies the top-capitalist's political voices. Universal suffrage, for the proletariat, awaits to be supplemented by that which alone will "put a bone" into the suffrage - the class-conscious, and integrally constructed economic organization. Without such an organization, the only one able to counterstroke the threat of shut-downs, the addition of women proletarians to the electorate will have for its only effect the swelling into still larger hundreds of thousands the political majority of the class the sauce to whose meat is the marrow of child labor.

GOULDS, CASTELLANES AND SA-GANS FURNISHING TESTIMONY.

"Revolutionary." in biggest type, is the label that forces itself upon the principles enunciated, and facts brought to light in Paris in the suit of Count Boni de Castellane for the custody of his children, which had been awarded to his wife, formerly Anna Gould, when she was divorced from him, and who has since married the Prince de Sagan.

Nothing but "Revolution" does every argument spell that is made by M Clemenceau, ex-Anna Gould's counsel. and every allegation of fact that the talented counsel makes.

Grounded upon the ethnologic facts established by such scientific authorities as the Lewis H. Morgans, Socialism holds with the Morgans that marriage is a social institution, and that, like all other social institutions, marriage has undergone many changes, is not to-day what it once was, and will "Abomination of desolation!" comes at this point the yell from every prop of capitalism-press, pulpit and politician. "Revolution!" they scream in chorus, And yet what are the facts revealed by M. Clemenceau,-the counsel, surely, of a top-capitalist personage in her relations with similar pillars of present society?

Originally, it was the bridegroom who paid the bride's parents money, or other valuables, for the possession of his wife. This formality, it is known, no longer exists. M. Clemenceau new uncovers the fact of a complete revolution practiced by the Anna Goulds and the Castellanes. Instead of the bridegroom naving the bride's parents, exactly the reverse happened in this instance. Anna Gould, the bride, paid the Marquis and Marquise de Castellane, Count Boni's parents, $95,000, or be it 475,000 francs, when she married him!

Again: the modern, or orthodox theory is that the husband supports the wife, not the wife the husband, The fact is reflected in our laws, Only wives are entitled to alimony, not husbands. M. Clemenceau uncovers the robust fact that, not the husband of Anna Gould, Count Bonl, supported his wife, but his wife him. During their eleven years of marriage the support of her husband cost Anna Gould $10,-900,000, or be it 50,000,000 francs!

Again, and in this M. Clemen steps upon the corns of our American orthodoxy in particular. Count Boni doing the crushing of the lives out of divorced wife in traveling with the Prince of Sagan before their marriage male members of the class the glitter M. Clemenceau declared: "In America, conduct that might shock the more sober element of French society is indulged in by young women without let or hindrance"-in other words, ever orthodox America, being the birthplac ary heterodox compared with France

Altogether significant is the circumstance that the proofs of a thorough revolution in the institution of marriage are being furnished from the quarter of the stoutest declaimers against revolution, and of those most interested in reaction.

THE MARIANNA DISASTER.

Courrieres, France, March 10, 1906. 1.219 coal miners' lives lost: Fayette City, Pa., December 3, 1907, 34 killed, and their families left destitute: Monongah, Va. Whether there was "cunning trickery" in the framing of the Dingley tariff or wool-tops; and whether, in case there was such trickery, the present Director of the Census, North, was the guilty in-strument, as charged before the Ways and Means Committee at the hearing of December 3-these are secondary matters that pale into insignificance before the robust revelations made on that day concerning the wool growing capitalists.

The facts as brought out by Andrew J. Solis, a Boston commission dealer and importer of wool, who described himself as "a Republican 'kicker,' a protectionist but not a 'stand-natter.' " are these:

The phraseology of the Dingley act on wool is framed in such a way that the duty upon wool-tops amounts to 150 per cent, on the labor cost of the production to top-makers, that is, much higher than the duty on the more advanced product, yarns. The immediate consequence of this is that foreign tops are permanently excluded from our markets with the following further consequences as the ultimate and practical utcome:

1. The wool-raisers, finding themselves so completely protected against foreign competition, and able to charge a monopoly price for their raw material, reduced the expense of production by a savage reduction of their output, so savage a reduction that when this country had a population of 50,000,000 it had 10,000,000 more sheep than it has now.

2. The exorbitant tariff on wool has brought about a condition of things in which 75 per cent, of the people are clad from head to foot, and from skin out in cotton while even the remaining 25 per cent. are cheated by having to wear paper cloth in summer, and light-weight cloth in winter.

Being asked: "What's the difference if they don't know?" Mr. Solis answered: "They find out when a cold day comes."

There is an exhibition taking place at this hour in New York city-the Exhibition on Tuberculosis. It is intended to teach people how to avoid the ravaging disease. The revelation on the wool tariff points the finger to the real murderer, and thief, withal.

Out of thankfulness to Mr. Solis, whose interests caused him to uncover these startling facts, we shall here charitably abstain from turning the light upon the tariff reformers themselves. and showing that the wages they pay render health impossible, disease and premature death unavoidable. Aware of the fact that the "tariff reformer" of today will be the "stand-patter," if not worse, of to-morrow soon as his material interests dictate the somersault, the Socialist is justified in picking out the "stand-patter" as the type of the capitalist, and pitchforking the gentleman, turning the pitchforked social felon intoa standard to arouse the proletariat to organize itself by uniting upon the only field where unity is possible—the field over which waves the hanner of the Socialist Labor Party, urging the workers to form their battalions on the economic and the political field for the overthrow of envitalism.

Take it all in all, the "honest agricultoorist"-as Artemus Ward used to jeer at the Pharisaic rural population - is typified by the "wool raising industry," and it, in turn, typifies Capitalism-the despoiler of the land, the robber of the workers' wealth, the massacrer of the people.

BROTHER JONATHAN. BROTHER JONATHAN - Do you know that I at last found a flaw in Secialist reasoning?

UNCLE SAM-Let her rip; what is it? B. J .- Socialists want to abolish capital: isn't it?

U. S. (hesitatingly)-Well?

B. J.-Now, then, without capital we sould relapse into the barbarism of uni versal poverty. We would be deprived of many an advantage we now enjoy. To destroy capital were to destroy a lever of civilization, and that, you know, is an impossible task. Civilization will not back: it will move forward only-

U. S. (applauding enthusiastically)-Well said

B. J .- Wasn't I right? Is not that a fatal flaw in Socialism! I am glad to see you applaud me; it does not frequently happen.

U. S.-I applauded your last sentiments: "Civilization will not move backwards; its course is forward only." But the premises you start from are all wrong.

B. J.-Wrong!

U. S .- Yes. By the way, how did you like those glasses of applejack we had the other day?

2. J. (smacking his lips)-Prime they were, and no mistake.

U. S.-Now, then, suppose some man were to say to you: "He who takes applejack dies simultaneously under painful convulsions and great agony"!

B. J.-I would tell him he was talking through his hat.

U. S .-- And suppose he were to proceed to take out of his pocket a bottle labelled "Applejack," were to give that to a dog, and the dog were forthwith to kick and how! himself out of life?

B. J.-I would say the bottle's label was a fraud; it might bear the label of "applejack," but probably it contained strychnine.

U. S .- Suppose, now, that man were to say, "I call this 'applejack."

B. J .- I would say to him that he was free to call it what he liked but I call it strychnine, and to give the name of applejack to a thing known as strychne was a quibble and a fraud.

U. S .- You have just now accurately described the man who will give the name of "capital" to what is no more capital than strychnine is applejack.

B. J. looks up with surprise,

U. S .- It is not capital that constltutes the lever of civilization you speak of; it is the concentrated and perfected machinery of production, whereby cooperative work becomes possible, and the quantity of wealth yielded by labor is plentiful enough to afford comfort to all

B. J.-Isn't that capital?

U. S .- No, sir. That becomes capital only when it is owned by private individuals. Owned by private individuals and operated for their private profit, the concentrated machinery of production becomes "capital," and then, so far from being a lever of barbarism and a source of human misery, it strips concentrated machinery and production and co-operative work of all the good that is in them; it robs them of the civilizing and beneficent powers; it promotes on the one end of the social ladder popular poverty, such as was never before known in the world's history, and on the other end, purse-proud crime, ignorance and immorality.

B. J.-I now see.

U. S.-Socialists do not oppose; on the ontrary, they favor, promote and hail every progress of the sciences that causes production to be carried on in a more concentrated way, i, e., more and more co-operatively.

INSIDES ON "NAPOLEON" ST. JOHN

To the Deily and Weekly People: I notice V. St. John is going around and telling boy like that he assaulted Francis because of a saucy letter, hich is had enough for a general of ficer of a labor organization to do, if

But the truth is that St. John acted as agent and cats-paw for the New York soreheads, who did not dare to neht their own cause in the open in New York.

As a proof of this I wish to inform omrades, who may be interested this matter, that the assault of Francis yes a pre-arranged affair. B. told me confidentially more than two weeks before the assault: "Let Francis go to Chicago; he will get his bones broken, all right. They have everything arranged out there and De Leon, too."

I told Stodel: "If they think to do up De Leon I will go to Chicago myto protect him.". I did not give matter much attention at the time, thinking it to be only a bluff. and only now when St. John is Bragso-the-Monk-like playing to the gal ery, I consider it my duty to expose the hypocrisy of that false statement.

To the Dally and Weekly People:-Inclosed find documents I have promised to send in regard of the local S. P. of Norwalk. It will be noted that the candidates for Senator, Representatives and, Judges of Probate on the Democratic ballot are the same as those on the S. P. bullot and could not be other wise since they were ordered and paid for by the chairman of the Democratic mmittee, Ed. Barrett, who I interviewed on the matter. Both sides are very much disappointed, the Democrats at the measly skiddoo number 23 which the S. P. received; and the S. P. at not getting the support of Senator Dono ran's admirers for the head of their Emil Singewald. So. Norwalk, Conn., Dec. 1.

The documents enclosed by our cor respondent are the official ballots of the ocratic and the Socialist party. sames of the candidates who appear both ballots are-Jeremiah Donovan. nator; James T. BUILD UP THE S. L. P.

To the Daily and Weekly People: v that the votes have fallen it be us to survey the situation and sylvania the men on the firing line gave all or nearly all their energies to building up the L. W. W. and sorely ne elected the revolutionary atorm centre, the Socialist Labor Party. But the sote has taught the boys a lesson. We here understand that both the army of dismantling capitalism and the army of occupation are necessary to proletar ther. A new branch of Section Al-County, S. L. P., has been It will be known as Mt. Washington Branch.

The S. L. P. is hated and feared by every kind of man, honest and dishonest who doesn't grasp the full meaning of revolutionary Socialism. That comrade stands straightest and firmest-will the target for the ridicule of all those that "have opinions of their own," and "rights of their own," and enterial interests of their own. But we have now learned the lesson that the ortant matter to keep in mind is our material interest, instead of "mine," and that the organization is above "me."

Comrades, the future is ours. We se seen our mistakes, but we'll now correct them. Organize! Organize for cictory I. Organize the workers of the id, "hordes of Europe," "backward caces," Asistics, Hindus, workingmen everywhere, into a world wide army for

HAS THE RIGHT IDEA.

To the Daily and Weekly People:-There are a great many people who call themselves Socialists but who know little or nothing about Socialism. I met one of these kind the day before election, and he told me that he meant to vote for Socialism, but was arrais that if the Socialists were elected the capitalists would take all their money and capital and leave the country.

I told this fellow that we could ge along very well without the capitalists and "their" money, and we would have our own capital. I also called his attention to the fact that if those capitalists had to do their moving themselves there would not be much moving done, since they, as a matter of fact, don't do any work.

Now, a man who knows so little of Socialism as this man did had better not vote for the principles. What is the good of such votes when there is nothing back of them? Yet, the Socialist party is satisfied with such kind

I believe that we must get after suberiptions for the Daily and Weekly People, so as to teach our sympathizers and make them revolutionists, men who are self-reliant. I have a number of pamphlets which I loan out to get workingmen interested and then get their subscription for the paper. All other comrades can do this same thing. Thomas M. Hitchings.

TALENTS OUTSTRIPPED.

To the Daily and Weekly People:am very much impressed at the spirit of the writing of J. Blankenhorn to the Weekly People of November 14. I am astonished, to say the least, and must ask a few questions.

If, acording to Mr. Blankenhorn, cap-Ital must have pay for managing, and as he further intimates a more fucrative amount, and if certain workers nust have more pay than others where is there a leg for the Social Revolution

Does the earth-born critic use the dollar to symbolize the world?

Is there really a difference in the consuming power of different classes, nations, or creeds?

In many cases what is "skilled labor" is becoming a sort of "inheritance," just as the "pay" of the juggling capitalist leaves ap inheritance to his offspring. The advantages thus inherited. give a commanding position from the very start, while we who are disposseased of everything but talents must accept whatever they may allow and enforce our talents to remain unused because we are not of the commanding inheritance. The Social Revolution must have the welfare of the human family at heart and accept nothing that does not steer a direct course toward the goal. Temporary relief, it is true, nust be accepted; but, as our forefathers endured privation to wreat this nation from a crowned monarch so must we endure to rest it from the

LEAVING THE WRECK

To the Daily and Weekly People: At the last regular meeting of Local 522 I W. W. of San Pedro Cal. the following resolution was unanimously vention of the L. W. W., which was held in Chicago from September 21 to October 1, 1808, the general secretaries, Wm. E. A PRACTICAL SUGGESTION.

To the Daily and Weekly People,-In view of the misleading and contra dictory statements in the capitalist press, the 30th and 32nd Assembly District sub-division of Section N. Y. County, S. L. P., has appointed the undersigned committee to request the Editor of The People to ascertain from the Party membership and other readers of The People throughout the country, as to conditions and wages of labor at the present time. The 30th and 32nd Asembly District is of the opinion that small card with questions as per enclosed form should be placed in the hands of every member and sympathizer of the Party with a request that the same be properly filled and returned to The People. Our members are willing to give the Editorial department a helping hand by compiling the returned answers, under the direction of the Editor, also mailing, etc., so that we may be able to give a truthful presentation of the conditions in the world of labor by the early part of January. Trusting this will meet with your approval, we remain .- Yours fraternally.

SECTION LOS ANGELES GETS TO WORK WITH A WILL.

To the Daily and Weekly People:-Section Los Angeles County, S. J. P., held a formal opening of their new headquarters at 317 East Seventh street, last Saturday evening. Music and dancing were the main features of the occasion, and an auction of mysterious and fancy boxes, and the serving of refreshments and frequently engage them in conversahelped to make the affair enjoyable.

The new "home" is the largest the tinted, papered, painted and decorated. Members of Section Los Angeles Co. throw their money away on drink some time age formed an Auxiliary Throw money on drinkl-and at the League with the intention of going into present time they haven't even got the business, "not as a principle but as a price to get a drink. necessity," to sell Socialist literature and see why their business has fallen of clean and the literature in good wier was very unsatisfactory; so, to have a neat place open to the public all the [From N. Y. "Call" (S. P.), Dec. 3, 1908.] time, the League was formed. A part of the headquarters was partitioned off . for a store room, and in this way the . the Socialist party and the sobeadquarters have been maintained.

The League recently installed a piano n the new headquarters, and all that is necessary now is for all to pull together: for old friends and sympathizers . to forget the "bloody" past and come . around to help make the Sunday night . by its rank and file, while the propaganda meetings successful, and the | . time will come when there will be a large enough organization and so great a demand for Socialist literature that the selling of other commodities can be done away with-which present conditions force us to continue.

We are proud that Section Los An geles has the finest Socialist reading room in the United States, and hope other Sections will do likewise or better.

The election is over, and the Los An geles S. L. P. has started the next cam paign. Our S. P. friends who four years ago were going to elect Debs in 1908. and lately claimed two million votes. hardly know what struck them. Their vote in 1904 was over 29,000, this election about 19,000 in this state, and the 1912 sure thing prophets look sad.

But what's the use getting sore, boys They can't all think your way. Take an inventory of yourself and see if there is not something to be fixed at home Study the S. L. P., build up a revolutionary army of occupation on the economic field, and then political action will have some muscle. The scattering of the workers in search of a job, the inability to pay rent, hence moving, hence disfranchisement, the threat to those at work that if Taft was not elected their jobs were gone, in fact, the bread and butter question lowered your (the S. P.) vote and elected Taft.

When you are strongly organized politically and economically, when you show the worker you are going in the shop to operate it for his social good, in other vords, when you can make good to him and secure him his job and the full social equivalent of his toil, then the bread and butter question, and not sops and straddling, will elect the revolution ary Socialists.

Until then, get to work. Wage Worker.

THE DAY OF THANKS IN SAN FRANCISCO.

To the Daily and Weekly People:-All the papers, all the pulpits unctuous ly preached proud paens of praise for the triumphent return of prolific prosperity on this Thanksgiving Day. The press of the city proclaimed the death of Hard Times and the birth of an unprecedented era of prosperity. The burden of the pulpit's song was that we thank the Almighty not only for the manifold blessings He had showered upon us, but also for the adversity with which He had punished the wicked and chastised the proud unfaithful.

Now this glittering medal has a ve verse side. It is to be seen through the thin gauze of charity. By one "Mission" alone twelve hundred hungry homeles men and women were fed. Another charitable organization, "The Doctors' Daughters," sent out nearly five hundred baskets to families who were in dire need: fourteen hundred were fed at the Relief Home. Many other charity and church organizations were also actively engaged in feeding the poor, and wherever one went in this great, proud sea port town one met the outstretched hand of the beggar. Then, too, it must ever be borne in mind that where one where you are working..... person applied for relief, at least five How many last year?..... others were in actual need but did not

THE IGNORANT DRUMMER.

To the Daily and Weekly People: There is a class of people I meet who are about the most stupid of any in the community on economic questions. I have reference to commercial travellers. I meet them in hotels and dining rooms tion. When they get to discussing the labor problem they have the most worn Section has ever had. TORY

The chief differences between called Socialist Labor Party are that the former maintains an attitude of fraternal helpfulness toward the labor unions, while the latter is destructively hostile to all but a few of them; that the former is democratically directed latter is practically dominated by a misleader; and that the former devotes its energies to fighting capitalism, while the latter does little but attack the Socialist party and the trade unions. They separated in 1899. Since that fime the Socialist party has steadily grown stronger, while the other body has steadily declined. There is no reason to expect that they will be re-united. The best remaining members of the S. L. P. are rapidly coming over to the Socialist party, proposition as that when a man get-$1.48 out of every $10 in wealth produced he can buy back things to the extent of $1.48. And under such conditions as these the merchants cannot dispose of their stock, no matter how hig the "Slaughtering Sales." So the goods on the shelves of Mr. Merchant rot and waste away, and Mr. Commercial Salesman can't bring in orders because business men are piled up with stock.

When these smart drummers run up against this game of not being able to place orders they start lamenting. Strikes and strikers are blamed for their falling down. These fellows think of every possible "reason" except the correct one: capitalism. D. R. La Salle, Ill., Nov. 20.

He was compelled gradually to withdraw from activity ow ing partly to economic conditions, but mainly to poor health.

Comrade Levitt remained true to his principles and a supporter of the S. L P. until his end. Many a comrade spent a pleasant hour at the comrade's place discussing Socialist tonies:

The circumstances were such that most of his Socialist friends, many of be informed in time to pay their last tribute to their old and dear friend. Those will be shocked to hear of the comrade's early death.

D. M. B., GRANITE, OKLA.-Now to | their favor. Your statement that the our second question-

The labor embodied in a commodity is of two-fold character:

Read Sec. 2 of Chap, I of Capital. Sweat over it. Of the subject there treated Marx himself says that it "is the pivot on which a clear comprehension of political economy turns." It deserves all the sweating that can be bestowed

A coat has two values-one is its quality: it gives warmth: that is its "use value." The same of bread, shoes, etc. Their "use value" is their quality, to feed, to protect the feet, etc.

That same coat, bread, and pair of shoes, etc., has another value that other value is the labor-power, crystallized in it, and socially necessary for its reproduction. This other value is its "exchange value."

The two-fold character of labor embodied in the commodity coat, bread, shoes, etc., is:

First-The character of imparting quality," which goes to determine use; Second - The character of imparting "exchange value," which goes to determine quantity of other commodities, which, containing the same amount of labor-power, are exchangeable with the coat, bread, shoes, etc.-A whole lot flows from this. - Hence Marx is especially proud in announcing that he was "the first to point out and to examine critically this two-fold nature of the labor contained in commodities."

Next question next week.

M. A R NEW YORK-Now to your econd question—,
The Volkszeitung Corporation has for the Socialist party no use other than as a tender to enable the Corporation to get advertisements, that is, loot. Hence the Corporation has no use for a daily English paper that will trespass for donations upon German Unions and would also trespass upon its advertisers. The Corporation fought the launching of the Daily People, and prevented the undertaking. Within twelve months after the split when the Socialist Labor Party cast off the incubus of the Corporation the Daily People was and has continued to be an established fact.

F. D., TURTLE CREEK, PA .- Now to your second question-

If by "religion you understand the Sunday School theory of geology, of astronomy and of biology-then, no: a Socialist organizer cannot believe in that, Next question next week.

A. F., BOSTON, MASS,-Sure! The best use fraud can be put to is to give it full publicity. Whoever can be taken in ought to.

A. W., NEW YORK-You don't state facts enough for a correct answer. If, in that shop, all the three men were employed at the same work, and did it equally well, then, in case of a lay-off, the one employed latest should be the one discharged. If, however, the three men did not do identical work, or did not work equally well, then priority of employment cuts no figure.

W. J. M., SAN FRANCISCO, CAL .-The idea is good. But the acceptance of cartoons, like articles, cannot be decided upon without the same are seen.

T. J. L. WACO, TEXAS,-The recognition is appreciated-"The People does not allow itself to be goaded into a wrong posture. No pure and simple political corruption and stupidity will good The People into pure and simple bombism; nor no pure and simple bombistic stupidity and corruption will good The People into pure and simple politicianism."

T. H. F., SYRACUSE, N. Y.-There is nothing positive known as yet about the Debs vote. What was ascertained has been published. All that is positively known is that the vote will not come any way near to the 1,500,000 mark expected, or the 7-800,00 claimed by S. P. papers after the campaign; and it is surmised that it will be barely what it was in 1904-just as The People announced immediately after election.

H L. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL-We know not where "The Misery of Philosophy" can be obtained. Stanberry's edition of Balzac in English is supposed to be unexpurgated. "The Complete Works of Marx" have never yet been published.

. L. I. M., NEW YORK-The point is well taken. The publication of complimentary correspondence with the names and addresses of the writers, indeed exposes these to a deluge of letters from the bureau of guttersnipes who, like rats without a tail, have no higher cause to serve than seek to poison people's minds: That's all true. J. T. R. SEATTLE, WASH,-No, indeed! We are not "rid of the old reactionary Democratic party." The old hag will remain there almost to the end. G. M. CONNOVER, DAYTON, KY .-Impossible, even if Wm. English Walling were to give his consent, to publish his "Russia's Message" through The People. It is a 469 long-paged book. Publication in these columns would be interminable. Make an effort to get the book: 'Tis worth the money. As to "Crime and Punishment," shall see about it.

H. E. OAKLAND, CAL -As near as we can make out your request, the Letter-Box cannot meet the request. It takes a goodly essay to "trace the organization of the necessary Union from its incipiency to its consummation, including its ramifications." Shall await the promised particulars, etc., for fuller in-

T. G., LANSING, MICH,-The S. L. P. ever "polled 100,000 votes in New York and New Jersey," or, for that matter, in the country.

R. R. INDIANAPOLIS, IND.-A 'fanatic''? Hardly. A man who loves wine, woman and song" is no fanatic. You can't make one out of him if you tried.

J. C. PHILADELPHIA, PA.-The error that underlies your first question is an underrating of the value of history for the understanding of Socialism. A historian may, they usually do, state conclusions that are erroneous. The Socialist, with the key of Socialist economics and sociology in his hands, can correct these errors, and yet profit greatly by the historic parrative of facts For instance: No one can understand Socialism-a social development-well without he understands feudalism, a social system constantly referred to by Marx. Now, then, the very best condensation on feudalism is found in the Eugene Sue historic novels that the Party is publishing-especially the two stories, the "Pilgrim's Shell," and the "Iron Trevet." They are invaluable to a knowledge of scientific Socialism.

Next question next week

SECTION CLEVELAND, S. L. P.

Call for General Party Meeting of Lan-

Section Cleveland, S. L. P., has realized the necessity of bringing about a closer affiliation and a more harmonious co-operation in agitational work of the various language branches. Heretofore the various branches, while they have done good work among their own respective nationalities, have remained too much by themselves and systematic agitational work for the party was therefore out of question. As a matter of fact, the comrades of the various branches, with a few exceptions, are not acquainted with each other as they should be. This, we hope, will be other-wise in future. We shall endeaver to bring about closer and more intimate relations between the branches,

To make a start in this direction A GENERAL PARTY MEETING has been called for SUNDAY, DECEMBER 18th, AT 3 P. M., at former Section Hall, 2273 (eld No. 356) Ontario street top floor (German-American Bank Bldg.) We have here besides the English speaking section, a German, two Hungarian, a Slavish, a Jewish and a Scandinavian branch. Each branch will furnish a speaker of its own, and all speakers will make addresses in their different languages about the urgent necessity by Section Richmond; Downey, of hullding up the party organization. Buth, sominated by Section While this is to be a "General Party meeting," strangers and visitors are by no means debarred. On the contrary, the comrades of the various branches shopmates, and so help make this meet ing a success. Needless to say that ev ery comrade should make it his supreme duty to be present.

Section Cleveland, S. L. P. City Executive Committee.

THE DIFFERENCES

Between the Socialist Party and the Socialist Labor Party.

That the Labor or Socialist Movement in this country is not what it might be, and could be more than said every active participant in the movement will admit. The fact, however, unfortunate as it may be, should not be cause for discouragement: it need not lead to a lamentation or a tearing out of the hairs of one's head. On the contrary, there should be every reason for the application of energy toward remedying the situation. Efforts should be put forth to bring in closer touch and final unity elements at present disconnected. Any attempt, therefore, made in the direction of uniting men who have a common goal in mind, but differ in methods, is something that merits consideration.

"The Differences," by A. Rosenthal, Brooklyn, N. Y., is a pamphlet which takes up the clarification of questions which are keeping the revolutionary forces in the land divided just now. The purpose of the author is revealed in his preface as follows:

"Believing . the revolutionary elenents of all shades to be well-meaning; believing also it high time for the revolutionary forces to unite and on a sound hasis the enthor has analyzed the various leading revolutionary leaues to the best of his ability. the results of which analysis he submits to those having the establishment of univeral happiness at heart, and invites them to do their own share in the matter of clarification of the issues. so that the barriers of misunderstanding or errors on the part of either of them may be removed and unity of nurpose he accompanied by unity of

The author of "The Differences" takes up the Socialist party, the Socialist Labor Party, Anarchists and "Direct Action" Industrialists, Probably the fact that Rosenthal is not connected with any organization will prevent the charge of bias being raised against him. He discusses the differences clearly and intelligently and his work will go a great way in accomplishing what its author had in mind. The pamphlet should be well distributed. It sells for ten cents the copy, and can be had from the New York Labor News Company, 28 City Hall Place, New York.

THE MYSTERIES OF THE PEOPLE

HISTORY OF A PROLETARIAN FAMILY ACROSS THE AGES

FASCINATING work, thrilling as fiction, yet embracing a comprehensive history of the oppressing and oppressed classes from the commencement of the Rugers fine wrote a romance which seems to have disappeared in a curious fashion, called "Les Mysteres du Peuple." It is the story of a Gaillic family through the ages, told in successive episedes, and, so far as we have been able to read it, is fully as interesting as "The Wandering Jew" or "The Mysteries of Paris." The French edition is pretty hard to find, and only sarts have been translated, into English. We don't know the reason. One medieval episode, telling of the struggle of the commines for freedom is now translated by Mr. Baniel De Leon, under the title, "The Pilgrim's Shell" (New York Labor News Co.). We trust the success of his effort may be such as to lead him to translate the rest of the romance. It will be the first time the feat has been done in English.—N. Y. Sun.
